A store that's better than its advertising

Many of you men who dont come to our store, read our advertising; and you may say, as some men do who dont know us, "It's good stuff all right, but I dont believe such a store exists."

We know how it is; you think of our advertising as something apart from our business; mere talk to get you to come to us in order that we may sell you somethingas talk, you think it's great: If you didn't feel this way, and read our advertisements as you are this one, you'd be a customer of ours because we are pretty sure you like the principles we have laid down; every man likes to do business with a concern that puts his interests first.

Our advertising isn't talk; it isn't separate from our business it is our business; by that we mean it's a truthful story of the things that we are doing for you from day to day.

We say a good deal about Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes because we know we are doing the best possible thing for our customers when we influence them to wear these goods. The benefit to us isn't so much the profit we make by selling Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes and an exceptional high standard of men and boys furnishings as it is the profit you make in buying and wearing them.

Such advertising is Blackburn's. When you read it you're in the same atmosphere of service that you are when you're in our store but you'll like the store even better than you do the advertising because in these talks to you we understate values and services and let the excess come to you as an additional pleasure and profit.

Our advertising is really a promise to do something, and, like a promise, is a moral obligation that must be made with caution and kept with care
